Words from the Baron

Greetings unto Elfsea and Dragonsfire Tor from Sir Alejandro

When I first accepted the role of Baron of Elfsea, there were times I felt overwhelmed by the importance of the task. But, with the support that all of you have given me over the years, I found the burden also came with joy. It is bittersweet writing this last missive as Baron, but I know that Elfsea and Dragonsfire Tor are in good hands. Thank you to all the officers, in both Elfsea and Dragonsfire Tor, who have served during my tenure. While I was the outward sign of the barony, without your hard work and generous gift of time, Elfsea would not have thrived and grown. Thank you to Their Graces Ulsted and Ebergardis for their trust in me, when they invested me as Baron of Elfsea. Thank you to Their Royal Majesties, Aaron and Nicollet for finding the next leaders of the barony, in Gerhart and Elspeth. Thank you to Her Excellency Amelot for her gift of love.

Sir Alejandro Ramirez Mendoza

Eighth Baron of Elfsea

Sixth Lord of Dragonsfire Tor

Tales of the Tor

Lord Francene Sighted Lurking at Gulf War

As many of you know, Lord Francene Whitenhale slipped out of Ansteorra last fall, to avoid arrest. He was charged with treasonous behavior for trying to incite an uprising against the barony and the crown. There have been no sightings of Lord Francene since last fall when it was rumored he had escaped to Timaris. Well, an anonymous source has sent us photos proving that the traitorous Lord was indeed at Gulf War. He was spotted lurking around Elfsea's camp. When asked for a comment Lady Diana said, "He has some nerve to show his face in Elfsea's camp."

Lord Franklin Whitenhale has been concerned that he might be mistaken for his notorious cousin. The two have not been on good terms since their Aunt; Lady Francine Whitenhale left the family manor to Lord Franklin. We asked Lord Franklin if he thought his cousin might be making his way back to Ansteorra. Lord Franklin replied, "If he is smart, which I seriously doubt, that insurrectionist will be headed east. If he comes back to Ansteorra he will not like the party we have waiting for him." Lord Franklin as well as many members of the Barony, have been trying to locate and capture Lord Francene.

Greetings

There hasn't been anything happening chronicler wise as we didn't have a meeting last month. Hopefully we will settle on a name for the newsletter at the next populace. No new name suggestions have been submitted to date.

Yours in Service

Diana the Just
