September Anno Societatis LII

From the Hospitaler:

We are thrilled to announce the opening of the Barony of Namron Lending Library! This fantastic resource for the members of our populace was made possible by your generous donations of books on SCA-related topics. For the list of available books, and directions for using the library, you can visit the website at:

<http://www.baronyofnamron.org/home/newcomers/lending-library>

We would also like to thank the many people who participated in our demos this month! The first was at the University of Oklahoma, for Student Organization Week. We joined with the Medieval Fair Cast and Arthurian Order of Avalon to greet incoming students and share the medieval organization opportunities in our local area. Students silk-screened free t-shirts to take home, and were provided with lots of great information from our volunteers.

The second demo was in support of the Oak Spring segment of our populace, in Ada. We were a unique addition to the United Way Family Fun Day there, and generated significant interest in both the SCA and the upcoming Ada Medieval Fair in September.

Thank you for your continued support and hard work in growing our Barony and warmly welcoming our newcomers!

Yours in Service,
Kolfinna Egilsdóttir

From the Senior Pages Coordinator:

This month, we finished the block-printed t-tunics that were started in July. The Senior Pages did great work, as always!

Next month, we will celebrate our one year anniversary of offering workshops and presentations geared to members of our populace who are aged 12-17. It has been a well received effort, with excellent attendance. A second coordinator position is open and will be announced at the September Populace Meeting. A full description of what the position entails will be shared through the appropriate channels. Please give some thought to serving this enthusiastic segment of our populace.

Yours in Service,
Kolfinna Egilsdóttir
Senior Pages Coordinator

TRANSLATION:

If you wish to make half eggs, hard-boil them, peel them, and cut them in two. Remove the yolk, and chop it and add parsley, spices, salt, and one uncooked egg. Fill this mixture into the egg halves, and fry them in lard... or serve them fried in batter.

- Birkhan, Helmut. "Some Remarks on Medieval Cooking: The Ambras Recipe-Collection of Cod. Vind. 5486." Food in the Middle Ages. A Book of Essays. New York and London: Garland Publishing, Inc., 1995.

INGREDIENTS:

Eggs, hard-boiled

Parsley, fresh, minced

Spices -salt, pepper, & any medieval/period spice that you prefer; suitable seasonings could be a savory blend of such herbs as basil, thyme, savory, etc., or a sweet mixture of ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, sugar, etc. Keep in mind that whatever you choose needs to be complimented by the freshly chopped parsley.

Egg, raw

Butter

OPTION: Batter - flour, eggs or milk, & a pinch of salt

DIRECTIONS:

Slice the eggs in half length-wise. Remove the yolks. Set the whites aside.

In a large bowl, mash the yolks. Combine with the freshly chopped parsley and seasonings. Add enough beaten raw egg to thoroughly moisten the mixture. Spoon the stuffing into the hollow egg whites. Cook as indicated in the next step, or follow the option of batter-coating.

In a skillet or frying pan, melt the butter until sizzling. Fry the eggs, stuffed side up, until the bottoms are lightly browned. Gently turn over the eggs and fry the stuffed sides until lightly browned as well. Remove from the butter & serve.

OPTION: Make a slightly thick batter of flour, eggs or milk, and a pinch of salt. Dip the stuffed eggs in the batter and thoroughly coat. Fry the batter-covered eggs in hot butter until the batter is completely cooked and lightly browned.
