THE BARONY OF NAMRON • JUNE 2023

"Namron Grit" by Valencia

NAMRON CHALLENGES ISSUED

Two challenges were issued at the June Populace meeting. The first is regarding Award recommendations. More info can be found within. The second is a paid membership challenge. We have a top secret target number to reach by August 31. Why should you have a paid membership? Paid memberships help sustain the SCA as a whole. They also open opportunities for service as officers, Landed Nobility, and Royalty. You also get discounted gate registration!

The SCA is a 501(c)(3) educational non-profit organization, and we love talking about what we do!

NEWS FROM BARON YANCY AND HERSIRKONA KOLFINNA

May has been a wonderful month, with events every weekend, and June is looking great, too! Namronians, we are so proud of how well you represent the Barony, and we love seeing you receive recognition for the amazing things you do!

We're excited about upcoming summer opportunities. The June Populace Meeting will feature a Town Hall and Populace Planning portion, so bring your feedback on progress and suggestions for improvement for the Barony's business, and your ideas for activities throughout the year! Her Excellency will be issuing several challenges to the populace, so be sure to attend.

Myrgenfeld Children's Collegium is a unique event happening in Guthrie the first weekend of June, so don't miss it! You don't have to be a child to attend.

Ansteorra Crown Tournament and Vindheim Summer Coronet both happen in June, and we are excited to see who the next leaders of our Kingdom and Principality will be!

Mark your calendar for June 24, when we will have Messy Arts and Sciences Day, and wrap the day up with our annual cookout. This event will be hosted by Mistress Adena, held at Sir Eadwulf and Mistress Kyna's property, and promises to be a ton of fun!

If you were unable to attend the May Populace Meeting, our new Titled Bard, Vanja, debuted a new Namron anthem. He will be recording it, and the Namron classic "The Calm in the Storm" so everyone can learn them. Keep watch for announcements about upcoming bardic circles, too!

We will be hosting monthly in-person Scribal Arts meetings in Namron, beginning in June, so please watch for those announcements, as well.

Temps are creeping up now, so please keep hot-weather care in mind, and stay hydrated.

In Service,
Baron Yancy and Hersirkona Kolfinna

HERSIRKONA KOLFINNA'S SUMMER AWARD REC CHALLENGE

I announced this challenge at Populace tonight. Let's recommend people for awards, no matter where they live! If you submit 23 recommendations (or really really close) by August 1, you'll get a thank you gift from me. Send me your list (award names/type only; you don't have to disclose names) by email at baroness@namron.ansteorra.org (<mailto:baroness@namron.ansteorra.org>). This challenge is open to anyone who reads it!

Hersirkona Kolfinna's Summer Award Recommendation Challenge

Recommend one person for an award for each of the following. Try not to duplicate. Email me (baroness@namron.ansteorra.org (<mailto:baroness@namron.ansteorra.org>)) the list of submissions you made and I will make you a gift. Yes, this is flagrant bribery.

This is a list of ways to think of people, not things people should get awards for. They don't necessarily need a recommendation for the thing this prompts you to think about, but you should think about what they do that you admire or appreciate and then pick something appropriate if they don't have the applicable award already. Award recommendations can be within a local group, Principality, or Kingdom, and are not limited to groups within Ansteorra.

1. Someone who has been playing for under 3 years
2. Someone new to the thing you do. Reminder: the rec doesn't have to be for that thing...
3. Someone who has been doing the thing you do for a while, but for an award not related to that thing
4. A Peer, Noble, or Royal who has gone without recognition for a long time
5. A non-Peer/non-Noble/Royal who has gone without recognition for a long time.
6. Someone in your Barony/Province/Shire/Canton but not your close circle/household
7. Someone in another Barony/Province/Shire/Canton
8. Someone under 25
9. Someone over 50
10. An officer or deputy
11. Someone you met in the last year
12. Someone you have known since your first year
13. Someone who taught you something or helped you with something

HERSIRKONA KOLFINNA'S SUMMER AWARD REC CHALLENGE

14. Someone who does a thing you don't find that interesting or enjoyable but they do it well
15. A youth- maybe a youth who should have an AoA
16. Someone who does a thing you wish you had time to do
17. Someone you may not want to sit and chat with but who undeniably does their thing well
18. A group you see as a staple in Namron/Vindheim/Ansteorra
19. Someone who you think of as part of a pair, but usually their SO/friend gets the award
20. Someone who has thanked or complimented you.
21. Someone who does not live in your local group for an award in their home barony (sometimes the voices that travel the farthest ring the loudest)
22. Someone you met at an out-of-kingdom event and does something amazing
23. Someone who is also working on completing this challenge

You do NOT have to be a member of the Barony of Namron to participate in this challenge. Deadline is August 1. If you need assistance with submissions to areas outside of your local group, I will be happy to help.

FROM THE TARGET ARCHERY MARSHAL

Greetings Namron from the Archery Marshal, Event and weather have caused us to cancel several practices, but we will start strong again with new summer hours beginning Sunday, May 28 with practice going from 10:00am-12:00pm in an effort to beat the heat!

With general practice will come regular Royal Rounds, fun shoots and mini tournaments, and some historically based tournaments centered on various cultures and periods. In addition, I am always more than happy to run a newcomer clinic or one-on-one instruction for anyone.

Lastly, I would like to thank the wonderful people who donated their time and supplies to make loaner bracer for the barony. They look amazing and are most appreciated. I'm so excited to see our archery community coming alive through so many generous sources. Thanks again for opportunity to serve as marshal. Please reach out with any requests or suggestions.

FROM THE MINISTER OF CHILDREN

Greetings Namron,

I hope this missive finds you all well and enjoying the warmer weather and the fun events throughout the principality and the kingdom!

Coming up on June 2-4th the Canton of Myrgenfeld will be hosting a Children's Collegium! It will be held at Cottonwood Flats in Guthrie, OK and is a great opportunity for families! There will be classes for children and adults as well as youth marshal activities. Please check out <https://ansteorra.org/myrgenfeld/2023-myrgenfeld-collegium/> (<https://ansteorra.org/myrgenfeld/2023-myrgenfeld-collegium/>) for more information.

I hope to see many of you there! And in the meantime, if you have ideas for future classes or activities please let me know. I would love to do something over the summer, perhaps in conjunction with a baronial workday but knowing what interests our youth helps me in planning.

Also, since I'm about halfway through my term as MOC, if there is anyone interested in being a minister of children in the future, please talk to me about being my deputy. I can give you all the details, explain what everything means, and help you through the process.

Have a wonderful month everyone and stay hydrated!

In service,
Lady Emma O'Ruairc

A POEM INSPIRED BY CHIVALRIC COMBAT

By Cadmus Lochagus

In greyly cloaked night in foggy gloom, nascent light lowly eastward looms.
Time sneaking by with footsteps deft Bring dawn's caress foggy nest,
Stream dreaming in it's shaded bed, and night'
mantle the new dawn shreds Stretching o'er new distant lands, spread starlight's ever subtle hands.
to share once more heavens adorned shore.
Come In its place, winking newborn'd dawn, rudy tender, rising meek. Light lancing forth to waken creek, and brush away nights restful sleep, Lending softly, blush to banks deep,
soaked with dew, which quiet dark of night,
river passed in muted flight.
Brilliance' flash on water's, flow, here an ever changing tableaux,
casting sundry bright beams about, to flash on vine and boulder stout.
And light upon with rosy glow, scene of clay and root, reed and bough.
Lighting for a breath, or an age, are all a builders' teachers, sage.
Lit in this soft and virgin way, are lessons,
found at breaking day!
To trained eye, and pensive mind, are humble glories here to find.
First, see the banks of purest clay, from which the thirsty brick is made.
From our restless hands given shape and swelter'd in the sun to bake.
Purposeless alone, crude and coarse, when plac ed among its kind, a force.
Among its many kin at last, and mortared in its place, held fast.
Brick by brick after much hard work, course by course grows a sure bulwark.
To shelter here within, safely keeping all kith
and kin. Singly,
of little worth, in multitudes, set in place, brick in home is glued.
Next see the withy bowing reed, our flutes and darts and walls these need.
The reed strives not for mastery with the inconstant blowing breeze.
Reed defers not to flowing gusts, but a partner, embracing thus.
A lover then in subtle dance, engaged in ever swaying trance.
First bowing to the flighty wind, now bounding,
straight and tall again.
Still at last, its partner to rest , then springing fourth in wicked jest.

The Supple reed knows this too well, when best to move and best to dwell, to never wait and miss the chance, in lovers'
arms to sway in stance!
Turn us now and look below to see willow's widespread roots that grow.
These roots can quite our aches and pains, as many learn'ed men make claim.
Delving, seek for water far below, despite the nearby river's flow.
those feather threads and mighty veins, seek far and wide beneath terrain, Finding no ease in draughts nearby, for satisfaction they do pry, the willow seeking, never stops, to find its drink in secret spots.
In grottos of the earth well hid, in pools and mer'es widely spread,
for willow in its wisdom knows, stream is fickle, it comes and goes!
And look above to Willow's crown, of branches arcing back to ground.
The baskets in our busy hands come first from willow groves and stands.
In these are our burdens carried, from them
are our bounties shar'ed.

The august Willow, in its pride, arms rais'ed
up and shoulders wide,
remembers well in early days, the shelter used, that others gave.

The branches in their graceful arch, never forget where they did start, always reaching back to the floor, where sprout began in days of yore.

Full constant in humility, a lifelong servant,
mighty tree!

In blushing haze, in flush of dawn, the merry stream wends ever on,
Through strands choked, or passage tight,
under east's steady growing light.

Our drinking water here, is drawn, for dusty throats and fields of corn.

Through soak'ed spring, or parch'ed days, the water never stops or stays.

In raging flood or trickling vein, in laughing
spring or sucking drain, Dreaming of its far distant home, along the chosen course its born.

Now Passing through in secret berths, high above or below the earth.

Through hidden paths in chilly wells, or storm clouds mighty thundering swells, the journey never halts or dwells. No boulders side nor beaver's withe,

no farmer's lock or miller's pond can keep it from its march so long.

The route is never plotted straight, with bends and loops, with dams and gates.

Nor steady in its caprice pace, now flowing slow, now periled race.

For years untold the progress grows , without a sign or change in flow

the stream reaches its long-dreamed home,
the ocean wide and depths unknown.

Here in our steady growing dawn, as pink to red, light has gone,

now we sit in light fully bright and marvel in this peaceful sight,

and think upon what we have seen, of long
and patient flowing stream, of root and branch, of clay and reed, each with a purpose for our needs.

The clay to build the reed to play, the root to heal, the bough to shade the stream, to quench, and nourish seed. And silent lecture here tells each,
their hidden lesson here to teach, secret
paragon, these ideals:

That clay which can take any shape, make bricks for stacking with their mates, once bak'ed hard, long in the flame, long suffering brick's grueling fate, once made complete they will remain 'til bones are dust, and time obscure, that which was cherished, favored lore. yet brick still stands among its lot.

Free from decay or ruin or rot. Reed the dancer, never will fail to move in time, a whipping rail, to respond in time to winds touch,

be it hard, or light, just enough. Reed knows to stand against the gale

unbent is to be wrenched and thrown, from safe home on shore there to sail, and down on windswept water's storm. The searching root digs deep and spreads.

down, looking past the easy paths, pushing through earth and stony ledge, unsatisfied with shallow baths.

The bough may rise straight, broad and tall,
but must always return to fall,

back to the rain wet earth again, to shelter
many smaller friends.

The greater and stronger it grows, the more
can shelter safe below,
until it reaches mighty grace, and younger trees grow in its place.

And last the river shows that we, how long the path, may never see,

fore or back, and so seldom straight. Ox bows and loops, falls and dams, ever over stone balked strands astride the bed, not obstacles to hide the face for fear or dread. For these things do not block the flow, these are the waters very road, until it meets the sea so deep.

So, rest you here and think on this, lessons
plain are often missed,

Watch the creek running free and fleet, under curving willows wide feet.

Held Here among long supple staves, reaching back down to banks of clay sit with me, 'neath glowing skies, study the glory of sunrise.
